Preface

Skill enhancement has been on the top agenda in recent few years especially among the young adult workforce in India..Skill building incorporates soft skills and employable skills in order to meet the global challenges of the 21st century. The international labour organization has promoted decent employment opportunities among the unorganized sector in India. UNESCO has globally started advancing on recognition of prior learning (RPL to provide unorganized sector better opportunities to work. In India national commission for enterprises in the unorganized sector has been working on this issue since a long phase in a need to promote potential and productivity of the workforce available in the unorganized sector in urban and rural setup. Initial skilling, reskilling and upskilling all are the need of the hour to make economy vibrant and competitive. It is inevitable to improve RPL and the present book on the topic is highly useful for the professionals, students and scholars in the field. The efforts will certainly bring unorganized sector population into the mainstream. The efforts are highly useful.

Acknowledgement

This work is the outcome of the immense help I received from my teachers, friends and well-wishers. In fact, in the course of this work I have accumulated a huge burden of debt which public acknowledgement can do little to lighten. This is a hard job to include the names of all the persons who are involved directly or indirectly in the accomplishment of this work. However, it is my pleasure to thank them all.

First and foremost thanks go to my esteemed supervisor Prof. Rajesh, (Department of Adult, Continuing Education & Extension, Faculty of Social Sciences, University of Delhi) for his keen interest, clear thinking, sympathetic nature, able guidance, and remarkable suggestions during the course of my research programme. His dedicated supervision and kind cooperation facilitated and enriched my research work. It is all because of his open mindedness, objective way of thinking, deep insight in research, honesty and his sincere devotion, constant encouragement, unrequited help and valuable guidance has been helpful to me to complete my research within the stipulated period of time.
